ABSTRACT

This annotated bibliography refers to extensive material available for teachers, researchers, and administrators desiring to know more about dialogue journal use and research with many different student populations, from elementary through adult education, regarding teaching English-as-a-Second-Language. It is divided into four sections. Section one covers books, handbooks, articles, and book chapters. It is further broken down to general articles useful with any population, just with adults, and with various student populations. Sections two through four cover newsletters, reports, and dissertations and theses respectively. Specific content and access information for obtaining items is included. (Contains 211 references.)
